For Jill, embarking on the NPQH programme proved to be a challenging but extremely worthwhile experience. Most importantly for her it helped her to work out 'what kind of a leader' she wants to be – something that she is now putting into practice.

NPQH application are now open

The closing date for applications is 22 May

The National Professional Qualification for Headship (NPQH) is the first choice qualification for anyone aspiring to be a headteacher or principal. Designed in collaboration with some of the country's leading headteachers and academics, NPQH will develop talented leaders from all backgrounds who can deliver educational excellence in a self-improving system, and high quality outcomes for pupils and students. If you are interested in finding out more information about the programme please contact us.

Who can apply?

You should be highly motivated to be a headteacher, no more than 12-18 months from applying for headship posts and ready to take up a headship as soon as you graduate. You will need to have the full support and endorsement of your headteacher, line manager or sponsor. Your line manager will also have to commit to playing an active role in your learning, and encourage and promote your involvement in leadership and other professional development opportunities. You should make your application via the National College website.

Why choose NETSP?

NETSP was founded by six Teaching School Alliances and the School of Education, Communication and Language Sciences at Newcastle University - a truly school-led partnership.

Our programme comes with 7 hours of free, 1:1 coaching along with all the other benefits you get from registering with a 'gold' rated provider.
